SOURCE:

1. Albanian soldiers patrol about 200 to 300 meters from the Yugoslav border. The patrols, which usually consist of three men lead by a sergeant, are active day and night.
2. Many of the Albanian border guards pretend that they do not see persons crossing the border, and Informant heard that border guards have, on occasion, warned illegal border crossers of a patrol's presence.
3. Informant also observed a military (Border Guard?) post at Mali e Thate, about 1,300 meters from the Yugoslav border. Informant was not able to observe the number of soldiers assigned to the post, but he did see that they were carrying German weapons.
